An Australian Government Initiative

Are you thinking about starting your own electrical business or progressing your career?

Most tradies start their own company because they love getting their hands dirty, but when it comes to establishing or running a successful business, you need more than just a van full of tools.

Developing small business management skills are essential so you have the know-how to juggle the entire 'behind the scenes' administration, marketing and financial needs of a growing company, as well as ensuring you meet business and employment regulations.

How can the Master Electricians Pre-contractor Program help?

The program arms you with the necessary skills to take over an already established business or start your own. You will receive professional training and business mentoring support for 12 months and at the end you will receive a nationally recognised Certificate IV in Small Business Management.

Will the Program cost me anything?

The Master Electricians Pre-contractor program has secured funding from the Government to support eligible electricians who are seeking to, or have recently, established a business.

This means the program is completely free of charge to you. Your commitment will be your time and successful completion of the Certificate IV in Small Business Management.

Am I eligible for the Program?

To be eligible, you must:

- Have a current electrical license
- Be willing to undertake and successfully complete Certificate IV in Small Business Management
- Be willing to take part in the mentoring program
- Have a strong desire for career progression and/or to become a business owner in the future.

How can I find out more and apply?
